

To make sure the Microsoft Lifechat headset is the default audio and microphone device, please do the following after connecting the headset:

- Hold down [command] then tap the [space] bar then type “sound” to access the sound options in system preferences.

- In the ensuing window, select the output tab and highlight Microsoft Lifechat to set it as the default audio output device.

- In the event that microphones will be used, Hold down [command] then tap the [space] bar then type “sound” to access the sound options in system preferences.

- In the ensuing window, select the input tab and highlight Microsoft Lifechat to set it as the default audio output device.
